E. Michener, M.P.P., concluded his address in the Assembly on the A. & G. W. railway deal as follows:

"Now, Sir, as it has been said by different good authorities, that this road will not cost much over one half of the amount guaranteed, why did the government guarantee to this extent?—$20,000 per mile. We all know that, when a business man lets a contract he pays only a certain percentage, say 75 or 85 or 90 per cent., on progressive verifications. If the government had said we will guarantee $20,000 a mile as a maximum, but in case the average cost per mile should be less, then the guarantee should not be more than 100 per cent. of actual cost. This I think, sir, would have been exceedingly liberal. If, as the engineer says, the road will cost $29,500 20 per mile, which he calculated on a padded seat in an office, I suppose, and don't forget the 20 cts., why do the company object to put in a proviso that if road should cost less than $20,000 per mile then they should receive an amount not in excess of the actual cost."

Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this whole transaction is so utterly loose and censurable that one hardly knows where to begin to criticize. The elimination of those clauses of the general railway act, wherein the province was protected against irresponsible promoters, does not tend to give the people of this country confidence in the government. With this inexcusable neglect on the part of the government in protecting the country's rights? Why, sir, if the government of this fair province had deliberately tried to work into the hands of unscrupulous adventurers, they could not have succeeded much better. This whole transaction is a utterly loose that it cannot be whitewashed by fixing it up in any way, as has been suggested by the amendment moved by the hon. member for Carleton.

It is a canker in the body politic. Nothing short of a surgical operation will do any good. The whole deal will have to be cut out. It cannot be fixed up. The hon. the attorney general suggested that the hon. member for Sturgeon had a suspicious mind. I tell you, Mr. Speaker, there are others in this house who have a suspicious mind just now. The intelligent people of this free province have a suspicious mind. If I mistake not, they are in no humor to pass lightly over such a betrayal of the public trust as has been done in this transaction. Are not the people justified in asking, in view of all the facts of this whole transaction—has any member or members of this legislature, has any member or members of this government more interest in the Alberta and Great Waterways Railroad Co. than in the province itself?

If I read the pulse of the electors of this province correctly, their feelings, as well as my own, can be summed up in the words of another—

"Give us men to guard our mountains, Give us men to guard our plains;
Men with empire in their purpose,
Men with conscience in their brains."

Supreme Court.

The court was in session all last week. C. A. Fisher, who was charged with stealing sheep near Markerville, was found guilty and sentenced to four months hard labor. Most of the time was taken up with the Dubois case. The first case was a charge of sterling two horses from L. Troubhut. This case was completed Monday last, and on Tuesday morning the prisoner was found not guilty. Yesterday afternoon another charge of cattle stealing was heard, and the prisoner, we understand, was found guilty. There are several charges against the prisoner to be heard yet.

New Plow Factory.

The stock and machinery of the Van Slyke Plow Company has left Winnipeg and should arrive in Red Deer in a few days. The company will open a factory for the manufacture of this new breaking plough, for which large orders have already been given, and push the business to its utmost capacity as soon as possible. We hope to be able to give more particulars in a few days.

Red Deer U.F.A.

The regular meeting of the Red Deer branch of the United Farmers of Alberta was held Saturday afternoon last.

President James Bowser in the chair. The February circular was discussed and brief reports from committees received.

A communication was read, stating D. W. Warner, of Edmonton, would visit Red Deer on Tuesday, March 15th, and deliver an address to the Association and farmers on the proposed pork packing plant.

The secretary was instructed to forward a notice to each member of the Association, of the meeting. Copies of the pork packing plant agreement were presented to members.

As the question of government liability insurance is under consideration by the government and the U.F.A., therefore it is resolved that this Association request the government to refuse any application for incorporation of other liability insurance in the province. Carried.

Mr. McBlain wanted a good Shorthorn bull. Capt. Keast wants to sell 100 bush. Alberta red wheat, also a 4-year-old grade Huron bull. Meeting then adjourned.

Another Pioneer Passes Away

One of Red Deer's oldest and most highly respected citizens, in the person of Mrs. S. Bannerman, passed away on Sunday evening, March 8th. Twenty years ago she came over the trail from Calgary to the Old Crossing of the Red Deer river, where her husband had settled eight years before, she having remained in the east to educate her children, all of whom she brought with her. Her pioneering instincts she perhaps inherited from her father, John Bain McKay, and her mother, Elizabeth McKay, who were among the earliest settlers of West Zora, Ont., where Mrs. Bannerman was born on Feb. 17th, 1836. Her brothers and sisters, of which there were several, are now scattered far and wide, one of them John B. McKay, of Edmonton, being with his sister at her death. Mrs. Bannerman was not one of those who leave their religion behind them when they come west. Her early training in piety and reverence for religious things, and any one who knows anything of the early days of Zora knows what that meant, never left her. During all the years that she lived at the Old Crossing with her family many a lonely pioneer and discouraged settler found her house a sheltering home, from which he set out with a new heart to make his home in the great west land. Although in feeble health, for almost a year her paw in the church was never vacant till a few weeks ago. Two days before her death she expressed a desire to see her children, and all of them were sent for. Her sons, James, William and Lloyd, and her daughters, Mrs. W. J. Baird, Mrs. J. E. Wright and Miss Nellie Bannerman, together with her husband and brother, were all with her when she fell asleep. The funeral service was held in the Presbyterian church and was largely attended, especially by old timers, who came to pay their last respects to one who had been to them a true friend and a true woman.

A CHARGE OF CRAFT.

The A. & G. W. Deal.

A HOT TIME IN THE ASSEMBLY LAST WEEK.

Monday marked the actual beginning of session in the debate in the legislature over the Great Waterways deal.
The Rutherford administration was attacked in bitter speeches by Riley and Warkent, the latter charging that the traitors were not in the ranks of the insurgents, but in the government ranks.
Riley introduced an amendment to Boyle's resolution, declaring want of confidence in the government's contract with the A. and G. W.

The administration backed down on the deal and acknowledged a bad bargain by offering, through Woolf and McDougall, a resolution of compromise, to accept the offer of Clarke to amend the agreement.
Bennett declared the amendment out of the question, a legal technicality. Speaker Fisher, groping in the dark, asked adjustment of his decision until Tuesday. Bennett moved the adjournment, and the government was forced to accept in angry confusion.

On Tuesday the division was still far off. The house listened to eleven speeches, six of which were attacks upon the government for the unbusinesslike contract with the Great Waterways.
Those who spoke were O'Brien, Socialist, Michener, Smith, Stewart, Holden, Roberts and Cross, Moore, Campbell, Telford and McDougall.

Michener, Roberts and Holden came out flat footed against the government. Smith and Stewart made bitter speeches against the government, but said they wanted explanations of matters from the attorney general, which they had hitherto failed to get, and which they wanted before voting.
Attorney General Cross gave the explanations asked for, explanations calculated to set at rest the antagonism of Smith and Stewart against the government. Whether the explanations accomplished their purpose the vote will tell.

MR. MICHENER SPEAKS.
Mr. Michener, Red Deer, in a forceful speech aimed against the government, dealt with what he claimed to be serious loopholes in the agreement, and dealt more particularly with the sale of bonds claiming that the province had lost $1,600,000 on the sale.
"It is a case of deep regret to me," said Mr. Michener, "that so early in the session, I find that I am unable to support the government on this most important question. I was elected an independent Conservative with free hand, and I was supported by many of the leading Liberals of my constituency. I was looking forward with pleasure to being in accord with the government on many of the issues. I came to the session with no disposition to criticize.
The disclosures of the almost incredible facts in connection with the Great Waterways has been a surprise, and it even said that the half has not yet been told.
Bennett—"Hear, hear."
"The first great shock came when the premier told us that the government was not aware of the subscribed capital of the company.
It is hardly believed that the government pledge the credit of the province to the extent of such vast amount, not knowing the financial standing of the company. I am interested somewhat in the loan business, and it is not possible to secure a loan of even $1,000 before the lender has made a careful investigation of the financial and moral standing of the borrower.
"We actually find the government given this enormous guarantee when the financial standing of the company is an unknown quantity, before the company have a title to anything, without a single cent of security.
"This loan places a financial responsibility of $10,000,000 on the shoulders of the province's constituencies. We know how bawly these constituencies are in need of roads, yet the government would pledge the credit of the province to the extent of over a million dollars. There is something to be accounted for.

The whole issue was sold on one coupon, thereby losing to the province $112,000 in interest. If there is to be the same recklessness in constructing the road as there was in the sale of the bonds, the government will not only have a poor road, but they will be required to pay 5 per cent on it.
SPECIFICATIONS RIDICULOUS.
"A practical railroad man said to me in regard to the specifications of the Waterways road, 'To tell you the truth, they are so utterly ridiculous as not to be taken seriously. Why cannot the government agree to include in that agreement that the $20,000 mile be the maximum guarantee, that if it is shown the road completes at any point, then the guarantee shall only be in accordance with the cost.'
"The whole transaction has been so loose that it has created the suspicion of the members of the house, of even the people of the province. Why had the government nullified certain clauses of the railway act with regard to the Great Waterways. If these had been left in, the people would have been more protected. Why did the government nullify the clause which compels the company to open their books and produce a statement as to their shareholders?
"Such action does not tend to inspire confidence in the government. Why is it provided that the only value of the asset of the company, the Edmonton terminals, shall be redeemed by them at par in after years. These terminals will increase in value. I believe the people of this province are in no mood to pass this question over lightly."

L. M. ROBERTS SPEAKS.
L. M. Roberts, High River, assailed the government. He said he had not come with the first intention of criticising, but had come to learn. He had been elected on the principles of Liberalism. He denied the statement of the premier that the elections had been won on the strength of the railway policy. The electors had not before them the letter which Rutherford had written offering guarantee and assistance to this bunch of railway promoters.

Mr. Roberts pointed out that the Great Waterways contract gave too much power to the executive council. The government engineer was in a position where if he made a report which might not prove satisfactory to the government he could be dismissed.
If the company, said Mr.
Roberts, had done all other contracting companies were required to do, put up a deposit of 10 per cent of their contract, they would have had to put up $740,000. He did not see how the government could have done only $500,000 of a paid up capital.
The ten per cent was always held until the work was completed.
There was no such provision in this contract.
The government engineer had made an estimate of the cost of the road at $20,135.20 per mile.
This estimate he must have made from past experience since the plans of the road were not yet complete, nor did he know the cost. How he could make that estimate was difficult to understand.

SETTLERS DO NOT WANT GUARANTEE
"The attorney general said he was anxious to get American capital into the province. Last year there were 90,000 Americans who came to Canada, bringing with them some $90,000,000 of capital, without any guarantee, either. Let the attorney general spend this $7,000,000 in the right way, and he would get seven times this number of settlers with several times the money. He said

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9th, 1910.

PROVED HIMSELF A MAN.

W. H. Cushing, ex-minister of Public Works for Alberta, in the stand he has taken against corruption and graft, and for noble purpose and high ideals of manhood over paltry office, has endeared himself to the people of Alberta.

A man who can give up such an high office willingly for his conscience's sake is the kind of man the people can admire. He did not mince matters, he did not falter, he knew his duty and performed it.

The News takes off its hat to Mr. Cushing.

The Calgary News strongly defends the government in its action on the A. & G. W. deal, and asks the government to define clearly the opposition and place them in the soup. It gives the Albertan a whack by inferring that that paper was troubled with an ordinary attack of snakes, lauds Duncan Marshall and "whoops her up" for the government by inferring that those opposed to them were a bawling brood of bribers. The point is poorly taken because the bribing all seems to be on the government side. It is claimed Mr. McKenzie has been promised the portfolio of Public Works, Jno. Simpson, of Innisfail, the pork packing plant, and Puffer, of Lacombe, the Agricultural college for their support. If this is the case the bawling brood of bribers may be looked for in the ranks of the government.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The only reason why the other half of the scandalous, raw railway deal of the Rutherford government has not been told is that the opposition cannot find language strong enough to express their feelings on the matter yet.

It is stated the Government will appoint another Minister of Public Works in Calgary. The Albertan, the Liberal organ there, challenges them to do so, and states Mr. Cushing would resign against him when he appeared to the people, and beat him to a finish.

Now that the Edmonton Bulletin has turned against the government their cup of woe is indeed full.

With both the leading Liberal papers and practically the entire press of Alberta denouncing the A. and G. W. deal, the Rutherford government should hand in their resignation at once.

Bennett has 'em on the run.

The Alberta government gave the contract to build the Alberta and Great Waterways railway to an unknown American promoter from Kansas for $20,000 per mile and $50,000 capital. Hon. Mr. Cushing offered to build the road for $16,000 per mile and half a million dollars security. The people of Alberta are doing some hard thinking on the deal, and the end is not yet.

LIBERAL PAPER'S VIEW ON RAILWAY DEAL.

The following article on the Alberta and Great Waterways railway scandal should be read by every thinking man, as it comes from the Edmonton Bulletin, a paper that has always given the government absolute support:

It has been thoroughly established that the bargain with the Alberta and Great Waterways Company is not as good a bargain as could have been made, and there is not as good as should have been made. This is admitted in the offer of the president to revise the agreement, an offer made with pressure other than the criticism which has been directed to the enterprise. It is admitted, too, by the Government in accepting, as it is understood they will accept, the amendment proposing that the offer be accepted. And it has been absolutely proved in the debate. The Company have received the maximum concessions the Government were empowered to grant them and in return the Province has not received adequate assurance that the money derived from the guaranteed bonds will be all put into railway and equipment. The legislative foundation of the Company seems to have been devised if not by their lawyers at least under their supervision and subject to their amendment. The bonds of the Company have been guaranteed for $20,000 per mile for 350 miles, have all been sold, and sold supposedly at par at a time when 5 per cent. bonds should have brought more. As a matter of fact the bonds were turned over immediately to the British market at about 110. The Province got a sum only representing par for these bonds. Somebody got the difference between the commission and the three-quarters of a million dollars representing the difference between par and 110. It has been asserted by a member of the legislature as a matter of his personal knowledge that the bonds were not bought by Mr. Morgan at all, but were merely taken over by him under agreement to divide the spoils with the promoters of the Company, were sold in London and the proceeds duly divided with the promoters. On this whole amount of $7,400,000 lying in the banks the Province is allowed 3 1-2 per cent.

interest, and is paying 5 per cent. Somebody must make up the difference. The Company have nothing with which to pay it save the $50,000 paid up capital and even this is secured by the same mortgage and consists of nothing more than a promissory note. The only way apparent that this interest can be paid is that it be deducted from the principal borrowed on the bonds guaranteed by the Province. The agreement with the Company does not provide sufficient assurance that they will operate the railway if they built it, and the specifications do not sufficiently bind them as to the way in which they must build it. They are allowed to ballast with earth only if they see fit to do so. They may establish grades as high as one per cent. They may make curves equal to six degrees. Ties may be as far apart as the contractors see fit to place them, and smaller in size than the standard requirements. The road may be laid with 56 pound steel, new or old. The Company may build half the road and throw up their bargain, collecting $20,000 per mile for the length of line constructed, all savings included. As the distance to Fort McMurray is in a straight line 230 miles the Company are allowed an extra 120 miles for sidings, and for windings designed to increase the mileage on which the $20,000 per mile shall be collectable. It is not clear that if they saw fit they could not put in the whole 350 miles between Edmonton and LaLoe Bioche, or wherever they could find the easiest country in which to build. And the clause providing that the Province may take over the road is declared by lawyers to be absolutely meaningless, for it specifies no manner in which the price for the road could or should be fixed. What is worse, the clause of the Railway Act which does provide this is expressly cancelled by the Act of Incorporation of the Company. The Company are given power to secure Edmonton terminals with $400,000 of the money derived from the bonds, and when these terminals have increased in value to pay off the $400,000 and sell the terminals. Whatever may be the intentions of the Company or whatever these may have been, the bargain looks like one designed to enable a company of promoters to make money. First, by getting control of guaranteed bonds at par which were worth more than par, and of pocketing the proceeds. Second, to build the poorest kind of a railway that could be built through the country and pocket the difference between its cost and $20,000 per mile. Third, to buy terminals in Edmonton with public money and when these have trebled or quadrupled in value, pay back the bare loan and sell them.

The position of the members of the Legislature is a serious one, the most serious by far that members of the Alberta Legislature have ever faced. It is one of particular difficulty and unpleasantness for the Liberal members. Unless they are prepared to go back to their electors and defend the deal through thick and thin and from every angle and standpoint, there remains to them only one course. They must disapprove the bargain or defend it. And if they choose the latter course they are certain to have some defending to do. Nothing that has happened in the history of the Province has in any sense or to any degree so torn the Liberal party with dissension or filled their opponents with enthusiasm. Nothing that decided public action will save the party before the country. And that action can be taken in only one direction. The public are fully and unchangeably convinced that the bargain is a loss on one, one for which the makers should be censured and for which some remedy should be found, if possible at all, before the money or any large part of it has passed out of control of the provincial treasurer. To fly in the face of this public opinion would be madness—not because there is a body of such public opinion, but because the transaction which has produced it is one which cannot on its merits be proven to the public or to the independent section of the public to be in accord with the public interest. Unless this matter is made right by the Liberal members of the Legislature it will be made right by others. If they make it right they will receive the public approval due them for having put the interests of the Province before that of maintaining a seeming but hollow solidarity of the party. If they do not make it right they must be prepared to bear the responsibility for having discredited their party by making a party, so far as they held power to do so, in a transaction which did not properly safeguard the public interests. They hold the fate of the party in their hands. They may either declare it to be as it has been, the party of the people, or they may, so far as their power to do so goes, involve it in the defence of the indefensible and discredit it thoroughly and for ever. The righting of this mistake should be made from the inside.

CALGARY ALBERTAN.

A bunch of unknowns, not railway builders, with a discounted note of $500,000, secure from the Alberta government in the neighborhood of $7,750,000 to build an inferior road of about 300 miles, and Hon. W. H. Cushing offers to build a better road for $12,000 a mile, which is less than half the amount, or build and equip the road for $16,000 a mile, which would still be two millions less than the former figure.

These are the facts in a nutshell. Not a single word can be controverted or questioned. The people of the province can form their own conclusions.

CALGARY HERALD.

In the speech made by R. B. Bennett last night in the legislature there has been a new element introduced which will put the Waterways railway in oblivion for a time. Grave charges are made in which an emissary of Mr. Cross is said to have endeavored to obtain $12,000 from a telephone company for campaign purposes. Mr. Cushing says the statement made is "substantially true." The whole thing is most emphatically denied by Mr. Cross, who demands an investigation. This thing has been discussed for some time, on the Calgary streets and there was no great surprise when the report came out this morning. Mr. Cross demands an investigation. There will surely be one. If Hopkins has circulated a report such as this, and the two Calgary members say that he has, the attorney general is the man to lead the way in the prosecution.

U.F.A., Edwell Union No. 53.

Notwithstanding the severe cold, there was a fair attendance of members at the monthly meeting on the 23rd of February.

Considerable discussion ensued on Circular No. 1 from the Executive, and in regard to the hall insurance question the members voted in favor of Resolution No. 8, and the secretary was instructed to fill up and return the voting slip.

A letter from the Live Stock Commissioner, enclosing forms of agreement re pork packing, was read, and it was agreed to leave the matter over till the meeting, when Mr. E. Carswell was expected to attend and address the members on the subject.

The secretary read quotations for the supply of formalin for the season and it was decided to obtain same from the T. Eaton Co. Limited, of Winnipeg. A member reported having a .22 Winchester rifle for sale, and another member enquired for second hand Red Pile for preference. Further particulars can be obtained from the secretary.

The secretary still has a few buttons on hand, any member requiring one can obtain it from him.

The meeting then adjourned to Wednesday, March 9th, 1910, at 7-30 p.m., and all members are particularly requested to attend, as there is important business to be transacted.

HUDSON'S BAY ROUTE.

The Military Value Which It Would Have for the Empire.

Ottawa, March 5th.—In the course of his contribution to the debate on the naval service bill, Dr. Chisholm drew attention to the military value which the opening of the Hudson's Bay route would have for the Empire. He had been dealing with the task of guarding the line of Britain's food supply from the St. Lawrence to the British Isles.

"The line of food supply from Canada would be a very long one," he said, "and a difficult one to guard. I would propose that we should open up the Hudson's Bay route, that would shorten the line of Britain's food supply. This line, he argued, would be so much shorter, and easier to guard that it would materially lighten the burden of defence; he put the saving at two Dreadnoughts."

Later on he spoke on the commercial need for the opening of the Hudson's Bay. "Now, Sir," he said, "there is just as much fallacy current about the navigation of the Hudson's Bay as there was about our wheat lands. There are certain powerful companies interested in keeping the shores of the Hudson's Bay as a preserve. There is a social obstacle in the way, and that is our transcontinental railways. They are very much opposed to opening up the Hudson's Bay route because it will take away their trade. I am a big enough Canadian to give Western Canada all her rights. I see no advantage in being so narrow minded. We have got now four lines of railway running from Winnipeg to Fort William; we have got the Canadian Northern, the Grand Trunk Pacific, and a double line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and these have all they can do. In the Agricultural Committee the other day, we were told that only six per cent of the available wheat lands is under cultivation. Now it is only a calculation for a ten year old boy to figure out. If six per cent of the wheat land in the north-west required four lines of railway to move the product, how many lines will it require when the whole hundred per cent is under cultivation? It will require 64 lines. Then why should we dilly-dally about the opening of the Hudson's Bay route?"

The lecture given March 2nd by Prof. Stansell proved to be a disappointment to the large crowd assembled at the school. Although Prof. Stansell arrived, he was prevented from giving his regular lecture, owing to the absence of his stereopticon machine, which he depends on entirely in giving his lectures; it did not arrive through some error. However, he gave a short talk on the migration of birds and some of his experiences in photographing them, which proved quite interesting. He also announced that they were organizing an Audubon Society at Edmonton and hoped to get members from Red Deer. The Natural History Society is to be congratulated on its progressiveness and the effort made to get this lecture here for the benefit of the public; they should be pleased to know that so many people in Red Deer are interested in their work. Among those who attended were Mr. McLean, with a large number of High School pupils, Miss Kellogg, of the Separate School, with her older pupils, Supt. Barner and Miss Archibald of the Industrial School, with the senior classes, and a number of local and rural teachers.

Hockey Notes.

The Strathcona Hockey team defeated Red Deer on Saturday night in a rather poor exhibition, by 5-1. The locals seemed to lack speed and energy and missed many good chances to score. The full senior team were not on hand so P. Smith had to play. The team from the north were not a very heavy bunch but were fast, and good shots. For Red Deer, Willen played the best game. The team was: Grant, Willen, C. Smith, Brumpton, Hewson, Markle, and P. Smith.

Lacombe beat Strathcona 12-0 on Friday night. Stettler took a trip to Calgary last week and was defeated by the Tigers 6-5 in a fast game.

Red Deer Juniors went to Innisfail Saturday and defeated the Juniors there 8-0.

The Single Ladies defeated the Married by 4-0 on Tuesday night in a brilliant display of puck-chasing. Sadie Smith was the star of the game.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the Red Deer Club, it seems impossible to get the executive of the Hockey Association to call a meeting to discuss the protest against Lacombe. Red Deer is not out after the championship, but it seems vastly unfair to have Stettler, the fastest team in the league, disqualified, and yet allow a team just as guilty as Stettler, carry off the honors. If the Association cannot protect teams affiliated with it, it is time a new Association was formed.

Sporting Notes.

The School Football Club held a meeting in the school on Wednesday evening last. It was decided to enter a team in the Town League again this year. When the meeting was called to order, Mr. W. J. McLean was elected president and took the chair, and the following officers were elected: Patrons; Messrs. E. Michener, R. L. Gaetz, Geo. Root, W. E. Lord, J. A. Carswell, R. C. Brumpton, T. A. Gaetz, Hon. Pres., R. B. Welliver, Hon. Vice Pres., Mr. Boyce, Manager, Mr. Hutton; Committee, Messrs. Gibson, Brydgin, Gee, Carswell and Hutton; Sec.-Treas., A. Carswell; Vice Pres., F. Donomey. The fee for membership will be $1.00.

BASEBALL.

The return of warmer weather has already started the baseball fans talking, and a meeting will be held some time next week to organize for the coming season. A scheme is on foot to form a league from Olds to Camrose, taking in teams from Olds, Innisfail, Red Deer, Lacombe, Wetaskiwin, and Camrose and possibly Stettler. Home and home games will be played as in the hockey league. The travelling expenses for the league will be very small as it will be possible for a team to play two games a day in almost every instance. A meeting will be held here in the near future to talk the matter over, and delegates from the different towns interested will attend. A good baseball team is worth a lot as an investment in the town, and it is to be hoped that the business men will attend the meeting next week.

CENTRAL ALBERTA METHODIST S.S. AND E.L. CONVENTION.

The annual convention will be at Innisfail, commencing 2 o'clock on Wednesday, March 16th, and concluding on Friday morning, the 18th inst. Plans have been laid for a large attendance and it is hoped that all appointed as delegates will be there on time and faithfully attend all the sessions.
